About the California Collegiate League

The California Collegiate League is a non-profit organization incorporated by seven non-profit amateur baseball organizations in the greater Southern California and Las Vegas areas dedicated to the development of student-athletes from across the country while providing inexpensive family-friendly entertainment to our home communities. The CCL organizes a 36-game championship season from June 1-Aug 15 annually and requires its players to use wood bats and professional-level baseballs to further their development as prospects. There are approximately 250 collegiate athletes participating in the league each year. In 2010 48% of the athletes were Division I players, representing 19 Division I conferences and 53 Division I schools, 48% were Division II-III, NAIA and Junior College athletes and 4% were undecided.

For additional information regarding the California Collegiate League please call (805) 680-1047 or visit the CCL website at: www.calsummerball.com.
